GUEST LIST APRIL – MAY 2011

Unless otherwise stated, events take place in

The Glenfarg Hotel, Glenfarg, Perthshire

Starting at 8.30 pm

April Monday 11th

Entry £3 all

Folk Feast Recovery Session

For those with any remaining energy / voices, come and sing the songs you didn't get a chance to sing over the Folk Feast weekend—or reprise the ones you did! An opportunity to slow down and chill out.

Monday 18th April

Members £5, Non-members £8

Ciaran Dorris

Belfast-born but long time resident in Glasgow, Ciaran has a superb voice and writes and sings great songs. His 2010 album 'Home' presents his talents at their best. Ciaran is the regular presenter of the popular 'Sunday Session' on Celtic Music Radio. His previous appearances at Glenfarg have been greatly enjoyed and we look forward to this visit.

Monday 25th April

Members £5, Non-members £8

Tattie Jam

Seylan Baxter (cello and vocals) and Ruaridh Pringle (guitar, banjo, didgeridoo and vocals) offer superb vocal harmonies and striking instrumental arrangements. Their mix of traditional, contemporary and self-penned songs and tunes has been described as 'Richly textured with crunchy harmony and unusual flavours' and their performance as 'Utterly infectious'

Monday 2nd May

Members £4, Non-members £5

Open Stage

Four artistes @ 30 minutes each:

- The Beggar Girls
- Liam Quinn
- John Dickson
- Tomas Lynch

Monday 9th May

Members £5, Non-members £8

Ian Walker

A classy singer and banjo player Ian has written many memorable songs including 'Roses in December' and 'Hawks and Eagles' which have been sung and recorded by many other performers—the ultimate accolade for a songwriter. His latest album is 'Singing the River'. Ian has recently teamed up again with long time singing partner Ian Bruce but is performing solo tonight.

Monday 16th May

Members £10, Non-members £12

The Tannahill Weavers

Originally formed in Paisley in the 1970s, the Tannahill Weavers have long been at the forefront of the traditional music scene in Scotland and around the world. With 17 albums to their credit, they have 'transformed traditional music and brought it into the modern world vitally alive and kicking'. The Tannies are Roy Gullane, John Martin, Phil Smillie and Colin Melville.

Monday 23rd May

Members £5, Non-members £8

Alistair Brown

A Scot who spent 30 years in Canada before moving to Cornwall, Alistair sings all sorts of old and old-style songs, accompanying him self on the concertina. His mix of ballads, humour and stories has been described as 'outrageously entertaining' - so come along and be entertained!

Monday 30th May

Entry £3 all

Singaround Session

You may sing of Marriage, Men or Money; or you may prefer something entirely different. Anything goes. Mayhem may ensue!

Monday 6th June

Members £5, Non-members £8

Stephen Quigg

Stephen is one of the finest singers around whether singing traditional songs, Burns songs, funny songs, or other contemporary songs. A solo spot tonight but sometimes with Nick Keir and formerly with the McCalmans. Always popular at Glenfarg!
